DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: The term "motion picture," which is used in the title, abstract, specification and the claims of the application, is misleading as to the scope of the present invention. According to US practice, this term is used to refer to a "movie," which is generally comprised of a sequence of images that are projected in rapid succession so as to create the illusion of movement. The present invention appears to only include a single image that shifts back and forth within a frame.
2. The disclosure is objected to because it contains numerous minor informalities. Some examples of errors are: page 1, line 13, "a display framework for replaceable motion picture" ; Page 1, line 20, "the bottom frame and the bottom of picture" ; Page 2, line 26, "a predetermined of protruded teeth" ; The specification should be revised carefully in order to correct typographical and grammatical errors.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Objections

3. Claims 1 and 5 are objected to for the following minor informalities: on line 12 of claim 1, "to providing a movement" contains a typographical error. On line 3 of claim 5, "a predetermined of protruded teeth" contains a typographical error.
4. Claim 4 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim cannot depend on another multiple dependant claim. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claim will not be further treated on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

5. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
6. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Where applicant acts as his or her own lexicographer to specifically define a term of a claim contrary to its ordinary meaning, the written description must clearly redefine the claim term and set forth the uncommon definition so as to put one reasonably skilled in the art on notice that the applicant intended to so redefine that claim term. Process Control Corp. v. HydReclaim Corp., 190 F.3d 1350, 1357, 52 USPQ2d 1029, 1033 (Fed. Cir. 1999). The term "motion picture" in claim 1 is used by the claim to mean "a single picture that moves reciprocally within a frame”, while the accepted meaning is “a sequence of images that are projected onto a screen with sufficient rapidity to create the illusion of motion and continuity.” The term is indefinite because the specification does not clearly redefine the term.

The claims recite many non-positive limitations of the subject matter, using language such as “adapted to-” and “capable of-.” Such repeated use of this language renders the claims indefinite because it is unclear which limitations are actual structural elements of the claimed invention and which limitations are merely functional.

Claim 1 recites the limitation “said bottom picture frame” in line 12. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

In claim 1, the term “standstill movement” is a contradictory term since “standstill” implies an absence of movement. The term is therefore indefinite.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 1-6 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Bar-Yona (US-6226906) teaches a picture frame with a means for reciprocally moving a picture, driven by an electric motor and a gear assembly.

Liebman et al (US-2004/0231206) teaches a display with a motion actuator for reciprocally moving a picture.

Stenz (US-1026184) teaches a gear mechanism with a control gear that alternately engages forward and reverse direction gears to create reciprocal motion in pistons. Stenz does not make use of a bridging gear for obtaining motion in the reverse direction.

Walker et al (US-642650) teaches a crank-driven churn, where a gear alternately engages forward and reverse direction gears.
